

C3 Hepburn Heights chooses Adamson

AUSTRALIA: C3 Church Hepburn Heights, a Pentecostal church that has grown to be one of Perth's leading HOWs, has upgraded its sound reinforcement system following an extensive review during the latter part of 2010. After trying many different brands and models the volunteer group at C3 decided to select Adamson's Metrix system.

It was supplied by leading Australian dealer CMI Music & Audio, which designed and installed the system in conjunction with Perth-based installation company 3 Monkeys. The brief was to give the church maximum coverage and also allow for the fact that the building had had noise issues with its neighbours in the past, making directivity paramount.

C3 Church has opted for Adamson's Metrix system

'The system just sounds fantastic,' said Rowan Hunter of 3 Monkeys. 'It sounds so good and is so small, it's just perfect.' Mr Hunter has had a close association with the church over many years and led the install team. 'We used just two Metrix T boxes and one Metrix W per side, yet the SPL hits all the right spots,' he added.

The C3 church is a multi generational, dynamic and vibrant international movement of churches enjoying a reputation of balance and integrity since it was formed in August 1975. It was founded and led by Phil Pringle of C3 Church Oxford Falls in Sydney, Australia. C3 Church Hepburn Heights also has special links with churches it has planted and adopted over the course of its history.